Interactive Minds is a consultancy company that provides services to student, teacher, parent and organization in the areas of educational technology, language development as well as primary school mathematics.

Its offerings include a supplementary maths programme developed in line with the Singapore maths syllabus. The programme which caters to children from (kindergarten 2) 5-year olds to (Primary 4) 9- year olds, supports both home schooling and personal tutoring.

MOM and I Everyday Maths programme seeks to encourage and motivate parents to become “hands on” partner in their children learning process. By working together with your child as coach and mentor, the programme can help your child embrace maths without the fear associated with learning the subject, while also helping you to develop lasting bonds with your child.

The programme encourages a child to hone his/her maths skills on a regular basis. Through the programme’s lesson plans, parents are guided on how to provide quality maths instructions to their children. The programme is continuously being developed, updated and reviewed to meet new requirements.
